Dumfries & Galloway Courier

Birth, Marriage and Death Notices Transcribed by Diana Henry and Robert Wells

1st January 1833

BIRTHS.

At Cupar-Fife, on the 23d ult., Mrs Pagan, of a daughter.

At Liverpool, on the 12th ult., the lady of Archibald Maxwell, Esq. of Kelton, of a son.

At Roseville Cottage, Gatehouse, on the 22d ultimo, the lady of Wm. Campbell, Esq. of a son.

MARRIAGES.

At Castlemilk, on the 25th ult., John Hotchkis, Esq. of Lanwick Villa, in the county of Brecknock, to Anne, eldest daughter of Thomas Hart, Esq. of Castlemilk.

On Tuesday, the 11th ult., at Gordonstown, Dalry, Mr John M'Queen, mill-wright, Balmaclellan, to Miss Jean Harper, daughter of Mr William Harper, Gordonstown.

On Friday, the 14th ult., Mr R. Milligan, Castlemaddie, to Miss Sarah Hastings, Knockreoch, Kells.

Yesterday, at Netherhall, Balmaghie, Mr Andrew Milligan, accountant, Castle-Douglas, to Isabella, second daughter of Robert Douglas, Esq.

At Glencaple Quay, on Tuesday last, by the Rev. Mr Hamilton of Newabbey, Mr Wm. Lewis, ship-carpenter, to Miss Janet Hunter, Glencaple.

DEATHS.

At the Manse of Carsphairn, on the 19th ult., in the 43d year of his age, and the 14th of his ministry, the Rev. Thomas Cannan, minister of that parish. In him the church has lost one of her most faithful and zealous ministers; his family and friends a most affectionate husband and father, and a pleasing and intelligent companion; those who knew him best prized him most, and his death has occasioned a blank in the circle with which he was most immediately connected which cannot speedily or easily be supplied.

Here, on the 19th ult., Mrs M'Kay, aged 78 years.

At Glasgow, on the 18th October, Mr Peter Johnston, late in Bodsbeck, mercantile traveller for the house of Messrs Duncan & Massey, Liverpool. The manner in which this deserving young man met his death was melancholy in the extreme; he had gone out on the night alluded to from the inn where he was lodged, for the purpose of accompanying a friend so far on his way home, and when returning to his lodgings, along the banks of the Clyde, by some fatal casualty, had fallen into the river, and was drowned. His sad fate remained unknown for six weeks after the catastrophe occurred, when his body was found attached to the mooring chain of a boat at the Broomielaw. Mr Johnston was a young man of considerable acquirements, possessed of most endearing manners, great kindness of feeling, and rectitude of principle; he has left a wide and tender circle of friends and acquaintances who deeply deplore his melancholy end.

At Port-William, on Monday, the 10th ult., Mrs Helen M'Keand, wife of Robert Cumming, Esq., aged 78.

On the 20th ult., at Greystaneflat, Mr William Dickie, gardener, who for the long period of 84 years maintained a character eminent for industry, honesty, and independence.

At Dover, aged 70, Captain J. Hatley, R.N. last surviving companion of the illustrious navigator, Captain Cook.

At Crathorne, Yorkshire, R.Chapman, Esq. aged 107. He was born and lived all his life in the same parish.

On the 20th inst., in London, the Right Honourable Lady Tenterden.

8th January 1833

BIRTHS.

In English-Street here, on the 6th ultimo, Mrs William M'Gowan, of a daughter.

At Montrose, on the 2d current, the wife of the Rev. Alexander Cuthbert, A.M., of a son.

MARRIAGES.

At Kirkmichael, yesterday, by the Rev. John Wightman of Kirkmahoe, Mr Robert Burgess, merchant, Dumfries, to Isabella, eldest daughter of Mr Burness, parochial schoolmaster, Kirkmichael.

On the 26th ult., at St. Martin's Church, Birmingham, Mr Alexander Johnston, draper, youngest son of Mr Robert Johnston, late in Laggan of Dee, to Margaret, eldest daughter of Mr Archibald Forsyth, Corwerhill, by Newton-Stewart.

DEATHS.

Here, on Saturday last, in the prime of life, Mr Robert Young, foreman to Messrs Dinwiddie, hosiers, whose premature decease is sincerely regretted.

On the 21st ultimo, at Glengaber, of apoplexy, Jane Paterson, aged 57 years.

In Glasgow Street, Maxwelltown, on the 4th current, Miss Margaret M'Morrine.

At Gillbrae, near Dumfries, on the 1st current, Mr James Copland, at the very advanced age of 94 years.

At Gatehouse-of-Fleet, on the 2d inst., Miss Joanna Long, dress-maker, Dumfries, and fourth daughter of Mr Henry Long, agent for weavers, Gatehouse-of-Fleet.

At Whiteside, parish of Anwoth, on the 31st ult., Mr Samuel Carson, stepson of Mr James Milroy, farmer, Whiteside.

On the 1st current, after a long illness, to the irreparable loss of his family and the deep-felt regret of a large circle of friends and acquaintance, Mr John Gordon, Culraven, Borgue. He was pious without austerity, cheerful without gloominess, and benevolent without ostentation. In him were harmoniously blended genuine goodness of heart, a peculiar mildness of disposition, uncommon shrewdness of observation, an acute and vigorous understanding, a solid judgment, and an inexhaustible fund of humour, which often delighted, and never wounded the feelings of those to whom it was addressed. He had read man and books to great advantage; was eminently distinguished for strict integrity in all his dealings; and was, withal, charitable to the poor. The deceased was in his 57th year.

At Kilmarnock, on the 24th ult., Mr John Bryden, skinner.

At his house, Hamilton Place, London, on the 28th ult., the Marquis of Conyngham.

At No. 10, Ainslie place, on the 28th ult., James Craufurd Gregory, M.D., F.R.S.E one of the Physicians to the Royal Infirmary and to the Lunatic Asylum of Edinburgh.

15th January 1833

BIRTHS.

On the 24th ult., the wife of the celebrated African Traveller, Richard Lander, of a son. At Penshaw, in the county of Durham, on the 23^d ultimo, Mrs Drummond, wife of Mr Thomas Drummond, grandson and heir male of James, sixth Earl of Perth, commonly called "Duke of Perth," the present claimant of the said Earldom, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 31st ultimo, at Torhousemuir, parish of Wigtown, Robert Gairdner, Esq., residing at Rodinghead, to C. R. M'Haffie, eldest daughter or Major M'Haffie.

At London, on Wednesday week, the Hon, Captain Hope, to Miss Charlotte Tollemache, daughter of admiral and Lady Tollemache.

DEATHS.

Here, on the 13th current, Andrew, youngest son of Mr Howat, draper.

Here, on the 5th inst., Mr William Glendinning, aged 29, of a lingering consumption.

At Norwood, in the parish of St. Mungo, on the 9th inst., Joseph Carlyle, youngest son of the late John Murray, Esq. of Tundergarth.

Here, on the 27th ult., Edward, aged four and a half years; and on the 10th instant, his sister, Elizabeth, aged two years and nine months – the only son and daughter of Mr Wm. M. Quaile.

At Holywood-Village, on the 7th current, Mrs Ann Garvock.

At Edinburgh, on the 5th instant, the wife of John Ferrier, Esq., W.S.

At Barskeach, near Newton-Stewart, on Monday, the 31st ult., Mr William Burnie, aged 84.

At Sewardstone Lodge, in the county of Essex, on the 31st ult., Richard Campbell Bazett, Esq. of Sewardstone.

On the 6th instant, Mrs Jane Mason, wife of Mr Mason of the Theatre Royal Edinburgh, and sister to the late celebrated Mrs Siddons.

At Edinburgh, on the 6th instant, Robert Corbet, Esq., advocate, in the 81st year of his age.

At Dum-Dum, near Calcutta, on 7th June last, Anthony M. Macdonald, Esq., Assistant-Surgeon, H.E.I.C.S., second son of Mrs Macdonald, Wigtown.

Richard Ryland, Esq., aged 85, the oldest member of the Mark Lane Corn Exchange. Mr R. in early life constituted one of the twenty-four magnates of the "Essex Head Club," of which Dr Johnson was the head, the only surviving member of which is Lord Stowell.

[In our obituary of last week, a mistake occurred in the announcement of the death of Joanna, daughter of Mr Henry Long, manufacturer, Gatehouse-of-Fleet, upon the 2d instant. She was the fifth, and not the fourth, daughter, and she died in her 23d year. She suffered a lingering and painful illness with the utmost resignation, and no young woman could be more sincerely and deservedly lamented.]

22nd January 1833

BIRTHS.

At 31, Dublin Street, Edinburgh, on the 13th inst., the lady of Henry Glassford Bell, Esq., advocate, of a daughter.

On the 13th instant, Mrs Patrick Robertson, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

At St. Mary's Church, St. John's, Antigua, on the 24th November last, by the Rev. John Collins, William Morrin, Esq., to Eliza, only daughter of Mr John Affleck, of Kelton, Kirkcudbright-shire.

YOUNG LOVE'S DREAM. – Married, lately, Mr George Wilson, of Walker's Farm, Murrell Rothering, Essex, aged only 85, to the blooming Mrs Baker of Teddington, Middlesex, aged only 75!!

DEATHS.

On the 16th current, at Corsbie, Wigtownshire, the Honourable Mrs Montgomerie Stewart.

At Milnhead, on the 19th current, very unexpectedly, after a short but severe illness, John E. Gibson, Esq., surgeon – a gentleman who to professional added literary talent, mingled with taste for the pursuits of husbandry, and rural knowledge generally; but who, alas! has been cut off in the very prime and vigour of his days. He has left a sorrowing widow, and interesting family to bewail his early fate, and his loss is deplored through a widely extended circle of friends and acquaintances. This brief notice is not meant to preclude a more affectionate tribute from such as knew the deceased better.

In Academy Street, here, on the 14th curt, Mr James Hogg, draper – a citizen of the highest respectability, and whose demise is sincerely regretted.

On Monday week, at his residence, 50, Parliament Street, Liverpool, after a short illness, Mr Thomas Gracie, aged 42, late draper in Dumfries.

Here, on the 16th current, in the 93d year of her age, Miss Barbara Carlyle, of Satur.

At Dykehead, Hightae, on the 20th current, Janet Gass, wife of Mr John Forsyth.

At Kirkcudbright, on the 18th instant, Mr John Kissock, formerly in Culdoch, aged 70.

On the 6th current, very suddenly, in the 52^d year of his age, Mr William Kingan, Kirkland, near Kirkcudbright – much respected. Nine years ago, he returned to his native county, after having been 28 years in the island of Santa Cruz.
At Longtown, on Monday week, Mr Thomas Sword, butcher, aged 48.

On the 12th of August, at Chouringhee, James Williamson, Esq., indigo planter, aged 32, a native of Dumfries, N.B., and eldest son of the late David Williamson, Esq., merchant there. The memory of this lamented gentleman will long be cherished among an extensive circle of acquaintances, for he was courteous in manner, unassuming in disposition, benevolent in mind, of unimpeachable integrity, hospitable to all, and endowed by nature with every generous and gentlemanly sentiment – thus leaving, wherever esteem can exist, lasting records of his goodness. Aware that he had soon to quit this world, his last moments were only embittered by the consciousness that the power of discharging the filial and fraternal duties, in which he had been exemplary, was about to cease. But there is a solace in believing that he rests now and forever with the blessed. - Calcutta Paper.

On the 9th of September last, at Decea, in the East Indies, after an illness of a few days, Mr Edward Nicholson of Whitehaven, in the 24th year of his age; a young gentleman whose many amiable qualities and truly excellent disposition will long live in the remembrance of his relatives and friends.

At Demerara, on the 25th of October last, and in the 42^d year of his age, William Jackson, Esq., a native of Annan. The singular philanthropy of this amiable gentleman will long be remembered in the colony, and his loss much and deservedly regretted by all those who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

At Kintore, on the 11th ult., the Rev. John Shand, minister of that parish, in the 79th year of his and 54th of his ministry.

DEATH OF ADMIRAL LORD EXMOUTH. – On the 23^d ult. at Teignmouth, in his 76th year, died Admiral Lord Exmouth. His lordship was admitted on all hands to be one of the ablest seamen in the Royal Navy.

At Warriston House, on the 20th instant, the Rev. Hugh Baillie Maclean, to Miss Ruth Henderson, eldest daughter of the late Alexander Henderson, of Warriston, Esq., banker in Edinburgh.

DEATHS.

At Dryfesdale Manse, on the 16th current, the Rev. John Henderson, minister of that parish. Mr Henderson had been chaplain of the Lodge Lockerbie Quhytewoollen from the date of its constitution, and the Brethren of the Lodge did the last honour they could confer upon their worthy Brother, by burying him with masonic honours; and in respect to the memory of the deceased, they unanimously resolved to erect a monument over his grave, if such met with the concurrence of Mrs Henderson, and the whole members of the highly esteemed family.

On the 17th instant, at the Hewk, Alicia Anne, aged 17 months, youngest daughter of Capt. G. J. Johnstone, R.N.

In Glasgow Street, Maxwelltown, on the 17th ult., Mr John Millar, silk-dyer, Dumfries.

Here, on the 17th current, of consumption, Mr Thomas Johnstone, book-binder.

Here, on Sabbath last, Ferdinand Magie, jun., aged 13 ½ years.

At Madras, on the 16th October last, in his 23^d year, Ensign Colin Macaulay, 16th regiment, native infantry – a native of Dornock, in this county, and a highly promising and meritorious young officer.

Lately, at Winfarthing, in Norfolk, in the 102^d year of her age, Sarah Jessup, widow. She survived her husband thirty years, by whom she had 16 children, and whose descendants, to the fourth generation, amount to 450 persons, living at the time of her decease. Up to the last 18 months she performed the office of a foot post, and for the 28 years previous had regularly walked eight miles per day, in all weathers. She was carried to the grave by four of her sons, who were attended by upwards of 280 of her descendants – from the man of 70 to the child of two years old.

At Annan Manse, on the 30th ultimo, Grace Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. James Monilaws, aged 17 months.

At Kirkcudbright, on the 20th ult., of typhus fever, Mr William M'Dowall, surgeon. The demise of this talented, indefatigable, and celebrated practitioner, has given rise to the feeling of deep and universal regret in Kirkcudbright, and in a wide district of Galloway, in which he had long practised with eminent and approved success. His worth, in every sense of the word, was sterling; while to the poor he was a steady and devoted friend, and in thousands of instances, liberally and gratuitously dispensed to them advice, medicines, and cordials. Mr M'D. was, we believe, in his 53d year.

At Langshaw, on the 26th ult., Anna Galliard, eldest daughter of John Barker, Esq. of Langshaw, aged 21 – much regretted.

At Edinburgh, on the 29th ult., after a short illness, Jane, spouse of Mr William Craw, watch-maker, and eldest daughter of the late William Gibson, merchant, Dumfries.

At Crawick Forge, near Sanquhar, on the 1st instant, Mr John Rigg, in the 83d year of his age. The deceased, with approbation and success, presided, and acted as spade and shovel manufacturer there, for about the space of 60 years.

Suddenly, at Edinburgh, on the 25th ult., Mr Daniel M'Corkindale, overseer in the printing establishment of Messrs Ballantyne and Company, and upwards of thirty years in the employment of that concern.

On Wednesday, the 6th ult. At Millfield, parish of Inverkeilor, Margaret Smith, aged 103. She was 15 years old at the memorable battle of Culloden, and recollected of her sister's "providing," with part of her own, being put in a chest and buried in the kailyard "for fear of the rebels." She also recollected perfectly well of the rebels entering her father's hen-house, at Cockhill, parish of Kennell, and killing the feathered inmates, and adding them to their spoil. – Aberdeen Herald.

Captain Richbell, of the Thames Police-office, died on Wednesday last, aged 75.

THE LATE FORBES HUNTER BLAIR

It was with deep regret that we announced the death of this gentleman, and as the event has excited much public interest in this place, the few following particulars may not be unacceptable to our readers.

Mr Hunter Blair was the fifth son of the late Sir James Hunter Blair, and of Jane Blair, heiress of the estate of Dunskey, in Wigtownshire. He was born in 1781. After going through the usual course of education at the High School and University of this city, he became a partner in the well-known banking house established by the late Sir Wm. Forbes and James Hunter Blair. He continued his connection with this establishment till the decease of his immediate elder brother, James Hunter Blair, M.P. for Wigtownshire in the year 1822, he succeeded to the estate of Dunskey in that county. Since that time he has chiefly resided in the country, though he paid occasional visits to his native city. He was induced, at the instance of a numerous and respectable requisition of the inhabitants, to offer himself as a candidate for the representation of Edinburgh in the present Parliament, and although the result of his canvass was unsuccessful, we believe we may say, without fear of contradiction, that his character was viewed with the highest approbation and respect, even by those who voted against him.

In a place where that character was so well known, it may appear superfluous to enlarge on his merits, intellectual and moral. But even the feelings of friendship will scarcely be accused of partiality in saying that his understanding was sound and cultivated – his knowledge of business extensive – and his mode of conducting it liberal and accurate. When we turn to his moral character we shall find room for still high praise. His sentiments of religion were sincere, though tolerant; his integrity and honour pure and spotless; his disposition friendly, generous, and humane; his manners cheerful and sociable. He possessed, in short, every quality calculated to excite respect and affection; and few persons, we believe, ever attained both in a higher degree, or among a wider circle of friends. In person and bodily constitution Mr Hunter Blair, was, to all appearances, so robust and vigorous, and his habits were so moderate and favourable to his health, that few individuals seemed destined to a longer enjoyment of life. This fatal event has therefore fallen on his numerous friends and relations with the additional weight of a sudden and unexpected calamity. – Edinburgh Courant

At Haddington, on the 4th curt., the Rev. Dr Wm. Sibbald, one of the ministers of that town, in the seventy-third year of his age. He was many years minister of the parish of Johnstone in this county – he was twice the unanimous choice of the inhabitants of Dumfries, to fill the vacancy in the New Church; on one occasion he got the presentation, but afterwards resigned in consequence of ill health. He was always distinguished as a useful minister – a most eloquent and truly impressive preacher – a respectable member of society – and an agreeable companion.

At Whithorn, on the 4th instant, Mr Samuel Carter, in the sixty-fifth year of his age.

During the last twenty-four years he taught the parish school of Whithorn, and for nearly twenty that of Buittle. He managed the parish bank in Whithorn since its first establishment, and rendered it extremely useful for the place and neighbourhood. He was treasurer to the kirk-session, and was always inclined to succour the needy.

Attached to the ordinances of religion, and active as a member of the church, he was a bright example of whatever things are just, honest, and of good report. He was remarkable for mildness of temper, and kindness of disposition. In his family he was an affectionate husband and parent. When bereaved of several of his children and doomed to endure the heaviest stroke of affliction, his mind, fortified by religious habits, sustained itself in God.

At Liverpool, on the 25th ult., Robert John infant son of Mr Edgar, surgeon.

THE LATE SIR JOHN MALCOLM

The destroyer is still busy in our highest places; and within a week or less, Lord King, a talented and accomplished nobleman and statesman, has followed Sir John Malcolm to the grave – who, in all probability, was the most distinguished soldier, civilian, and litterateur to which Dumfries-shire ever gave birth. His character has been traced by no unfriendly or unpractised hand in an article given in another page; and rather than abridge our own remarks, we think it better to postpone them till our next publication.

Here, on the 18th current, at an advanced age, Mr James M'Kill, for many years Deacon of the Incorporation of Tailors and one of the oldest residents in Dumfries. Our readers will recollect that he was imprisoned for debt a few days before the period of the late Election for the Dumfries District of Burghs and remained in jail till the contest was over. Being warmly attached to the interest of General Sharpe, the successful candidate, that gentleman immediately bestowed a handsome life annuity, which afforded him the enjoyment of every worldly comfort in his last and declining days. The recollection of this very liberal act must prove the source of much gratification to his generous patron.
At Annan, on the 17th instant, Mrs Matthew Blackstock.
At Sanquhar, on the 12th inst., Thomas Broadfoot, tailor in the 86th year of his age. The deceased, in the journey of life, was accompanied by an agreeable helpmate to the verge of 60 years. DEATHS.

Here, on the 1st curt., Joseph Watt, Esq., late of Jamaica.

Here, on the 24th ult., Euphemia, widow of Hugh M'Bride, seaman. This poor woman had, for a considerable time, been a staunch adherent of Mr David Dow, from whom, like others of his little flock, she received a weekly pension. She had ever continued keenly to defend him and his doctrines after the lamentable eccentricities which had opened the eyes of so many others; regarding all those extravagances as "manifestations," not of deranged intellect, but "of the fullness of the spirit." When laid on her death-bed, however, she could find no peace till she had sent for her parish minister and voluntarily confessed her errors to him; begging him to receive her again as one of his people, although she feared that by this conscientious desertion of her benefactor, her temporal interests might suffer. It is right to add that Mr Dow, although well aware of what she had done, continued her pension till her death.

Here, on Sunday night, the 1st inst., Mr John Scott, baker, aged 79, originally from Cupar in Fife.

At Rechorn, on the 23d ult., Mrs Margaret Kerr, aged 53, relict of the late Mr Samuel Kisson.

On Saturday, the 23d ult., Mr Andrew Picken, the author of several popular works.

Same day, in Paris, Marshal Jourdan. The Marshal was upwards of 71 years of age, and was considered the last representative of the military glories of the Republic.

At Braneyfield, in Carolina county, Miss Catherine Rankins, aged 109 years. She was a native of Virginia, and was born near Port Royal. She distinctly recollected the place where the town was built having been a wilderness. The wars with the Indians at the foot of the South Western Mountains, were freshly impressed on her memory. She recollected with much force the great excitement in Virginia which was caused by Braddock's defeat; while the war of the revolution was but an event of yesterday. She cherished towards England all the affectionate attachment of the early colonists, and mentioned it only by the endearing epithet of home. To the latest period of her life she was a loyal subject of the sovereign of England and viewed Virginia as still in a state of rebellion. – Richmond Enquirer.

18th December 1833

BIRTHS.

At Albany-Bank, on the 6th inst., Mrs Berwick, of a daughter.

At Annan, on the 13th inst., Mrs Sawyer, Factory House, of a daughter.
