At the Reformed Presbyterian Manse, Stranraer on the 20th inst., of scarlet fever, John, son of the Rev. J. MacLeod, aged three years and four months, He was a child of singularly interesting appearance, and affectionate and engaging disposition, which endeared him to all who knew him. Judging from his remarkable development, and the daily proofs given, his mental and moral capabilities were of a high order. When alone, his infant mind seemed absorbed with the Divine character, the nature of Heaven, and, in a peculiar manner, the love of Christ to "little children". His sudden death has produced a deep sensation within a wide circle of Christian friends and relations. - Cor.

At Knocktimn, parish of Kirkcolm, on the 18th inst. in the 17th year of her age, after a painful illness, borne with Christian resignation, Janet, second daughter of Mr Hugh Kerr, Ballochdone Mill, parish of Ballantrae - This melancholy case affords a striking proof of the mutability of all terrestrial enjoyments. An amiable young female, in the full enjoyment of health, and buoyant with youthful hope, leaves home in company with a companion of the same age and sex, to visit relatives in a neighbouring county: a few days are spent in innocent pleasure when at a relative's house she is taken suddenly ill, and laid upon a bed from which she is doomed never to rise. How true that "in the midst of life we are in death!" What a striking address to all, "Be ye also ready."
